

The RockStar Foundation was founded to raise awareness of autism and to support the autism community. The money raised and distributed by The RockStar Foundation goes to help fund innovative grants to families dealing with autism, cutting-edge autism therapy programs and continuing educational training opportunities into autism detection and prevention.

Currently, the resources available to help families with early interventions, autism therapies and socialization training for children on the autism spectrum are hard to find and incredibly expensive. Various therapy solutions can easily run into the tens of thousands of dollars annually for even mild cases. Insurance rarely covers the costs of these therapies and the economic effect of families can be devastating.

The RockStar Foundation was founded to address these issues in the autism community and assist families with the early detection, diagnosis and treatment of autism. The process to accurately diagnosis autism can be incredibly expensive and may take several months of intensive testing and numerous office visits to an array of medical specialists. Unfortunately, this is only the beginning of a long and arduous process. There is no “standard” treatment for children with autism.

Due to the nature of the diagnosis different therapy solutions help different children. It can take thousands of dollars and a number of months, or even years, before a family finds a successful treatment regimen. Rarely is any of the financial burden covered by insurance carriers. This process can be economically devastating to families. The RockStar Foundation helps families navigate these difficult waters and defray the financial burdens by offering grants to help cover some of the related costs of the autism therapy.
